

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to insist that all of their stations must air an anti-Kerry documentary during prime time television, just days before the election is a clear example of the dangers of media consolidation.

Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge, and is obligated by law to serve the public interest. But when large companies control the airwaves, we get a single biased perspective, and less of what we need for our democracy, (multiple points of view.) This is simply propaganda - the opposite of what democracy is built on! And is a very far reach from what can be called "news".

Sinclair's actions show why we need to strengthen media ownership rules, not weaken them.
Thank you.
